

Discrimination in housing

Take action using equality and human rights law

Free one day seminar

Tuesday 9th February 2010 10am – 4:30pm
STUC Building, 333 Woodlands Road, Glasgow

This seminar will:

- Increase your understanding of discrimination and human rights law.
- Give practical examples and advice on how to use the law.
- Provide workshops, hosted by people experienced in the field, where you will apply legal principals to real case studies.

We will provide an understanding of discrimination law as it applies to all groups. We would welcome your suggestions for areas to cover or case studies to analyse.

What we will cover:

- Who is protected by the law.
- How to identify discrimination.
- Challenging issues such as discrimination, harassment, failures to make adaptations and adjustments, with equality and human rights law.

Discrimination in housing

Take action using equality and human rights law
Free one day seminar

Tuesday 9th February 2010 10am – 4:30pm
STUC, 333 Woodlands Road, Glasgow

Who should attend:

This event is for advisors who work with people who may experience discrimination in housing; from paid advisors to volunteers at law centres, citizen advice bureaux, national and community organisations. Feel free to ask if you are not sure if it is for you.

Who is hosting it:

Equality and Human Rights Commission champions equality and human rights for all, working to eliminate discrimination and reduce inequality ensuring that everyone has a fair chance to participate in society.

Scottish Association of Law Centres is the representative organisation for Scotland's community and user controlled law centres. All law centres are charities and aim to tackle the unmet legal needs of those in poverty and disadvantage with a commitment to housing and discrimination law

How to book your place:

Please e-mail
julia.evans@equalityhumanrights.com or call 0141 228 5914
by 26th January 2010.

Please include information or requests that will help us facilitate your participation, including any reasonable adjustments, communications support, access or dietary requirements.

Click here for Google Map
<http://maps.google.co.uk/maps?hl=en&tab=wl>

Equality and Human Rights Commission

Scotland

Scottish Association of Law
Centres